this new book explores for the first time the full story of how two turkish and two chilean battleships became british capital ships after the outbreak of the first world war under construction by the shipbuilding giants of armstrong and vickers in august 1914 sultan osman i reşadiye almirante latorre and almirante cochrane became hm ships agincourt erin canada and eagle the first three served with the grand fleet fighting at jutland while the last was transformed into a pioneering aircraft carrier which would serve with distinction until sunk while escorting a convoy to malta in 1942 while two of the other ships had short lives cut short by the washington naval treaty the final ship almirante latorre would be returned to chile after the war for a continuing active career that would last into the 1950s when finally towed away for scrap in 1959 she was the penultimate survivor of jutland drawing on extensive archival research the book begins with an overview of the warships under construction around europe for foreign customers in august 1914 and how the four ships featured were acquired by the royal navy it then looks at them as manifestations of the international rivalries which directed much of the national budgets of impecunious south american and balkan states towards armaments the focus then switches to the british service of the ships actually completed as battleships and then to the story of the carrier although never finished as a battleship she would play a crucial role in the development of british carrier aviation finally the author traces the stories of the battleships of the latin american naval race from the 1920s down to the 1950s the stories and back stories of agincourt erin canada and eagle embrace almost the whole of the twentieth century battleship era and they take us down the byways of international naval power ranging from the pacific to the black sea and from the line of battle to mutiny and revolution a fascinating and original story for over 40 years warship has been the leading annual resource on the design development and deployment of the world s combat ships featuring a broad range of articles from a select panel of distinguished international contributors this latest volume combines original research new book reviews warship notes an image gallery and much more maintaining the impressive standards of scholarship and research for which warship has become synonymous detailed and accurate information is the keynote of all the articles which are fully supported by plans data tables and stunning photographs lists news events population figures and miscellaneous data of an historic economic scientific and social nature
